

- Products >
- News >
- Trade Shows >
- Dealer Locator >
- Partners >
- Dealer Login >
- Industry Links >
- Employment >
- Send Free Info >

News >> SD700

SD700 Press Release

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE Contact: Neal Swanson, 978-470-1920
May 31, 2006
sbsnr\SD700.doc

Standard INTRODUCES THE New SD700 Digital Duplicator

(Andover, Massachusetts) — Standard Duplicating Machines Corporation of Andover, Mass., has expanded its line of digital duplicators with the introduction of the SD700. This is the first 600 dpi model to incorporate the highly-refined micro porous inks and masters into a digital duplicator that also has a full-sized impression cylinder complete with paper gripper.

The SD700's enhanced image quality is the direct result of highly refined composite master material and a newly developed ink formulation. As a result of this new composite material technology, there are fewer fiber strands through the image area that can reduce the flow of ink, providing excellent solid fill when printing with the full line of standard and custom colors.

The SD700 is capable of printing on a wide variety of stocks in sizes up to 11" x 17" including envelopes, carbonless and card stocks and comes with a powerful RPCS print controller as standard equipment. Options for the SD700 include; Certified Adobe PS3, Hard Disk Drive, Extended Memory, 3,000 Sheet Feed/Stacking, Automatic Document Feeder, Color Printing, Two-Color in One-Pass Printing and a UV Curing/Ink Drying attachment.

According to Doug Reny, vice president and managing director of Standard's Business Systems Division, "this combination of high quality operating supplies and the impression cylinder technology will improve the perception of many print organizations about the usefulness of digital duplicators". Most importantly, Reny added, "This combination of technology improves print quality and still maintains the cost-effectiveness of a digital duplicator in both operator and operating costs."

Standard Duplicating Machines Corporation, based in Andover, Massachusetts, markets a complete line of digital duplicating and document finishing systems through an independent dealer network throughout the United States and Canada. For more information, call 877-202-2260, x 1 or check Standard's website at www.sdmc.com.

###

Find a dealer

Please select a product

SD700

Please enter your zipcode

